The Future Is in Our Hands . . .

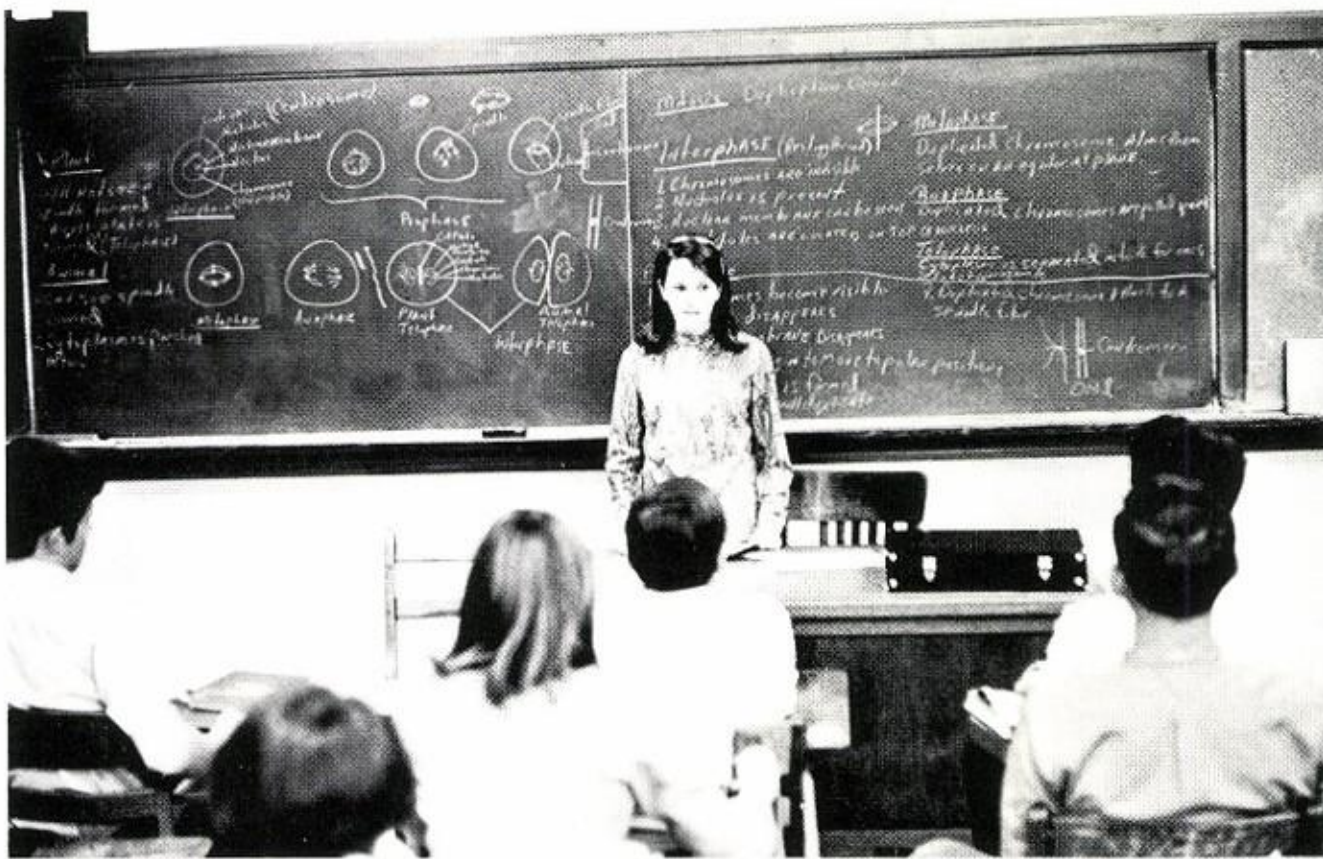

"The hopes for the world rest on the flexibility, vigor, capacity for new thought, the fresh outlook of the young. Schooled in the lessons of the past, unaffrighted by the present, look ahead with confidence."

Dwight D. Eisenhower

The three years spent at Lamar are vital years during which the mind is broadened and the outlook is shaped. These are years during which the student begins to look forward to his own particular role in life. The challenge of the future and our relation to it are always before us. We welcome the challenge and we will be ready.

The most indispensable ingredient of a student's educational future is his teacher. Who can say how many of our great writers, painters, scientists of tomorrow will look back to some particular teacher who guided him away from the dark abyss of mediocrity toward the bright light of excellence? Who can say how many future world leaders are learning the lessons of history today from a dedicated teacher who instills the belief that we can and must learn from the errors of yesterday for a better tomorrow? The value of these teachers is inestimable.

FACULTY

A teacher affects eternity; he can never tell where his influence stops.

Henry Adams

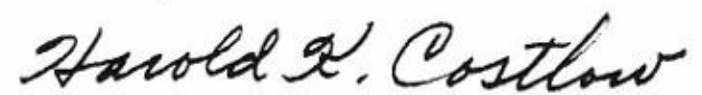

TO THE STUDENTS OF LAMAR:

As this school year draws to a close, it is time to reflect upon the many experiences you have had. I hope what you have learned this year will help you to face the many challenges that lie ahead of you. If the immediate future requires greater competence of our adult society, as we are sure it will, our faith remains firm that today's young people have the capacity and willingness to achieve this added skill and knowledge.

You must continue your learning process for growth, take a personal responsibility for your country, and rise to any task which confronts you. Remember that an ignorant man is dangerous — that our society demands an increased excellence in learning so that it may soar to greater heights.

Sincerely,

Academic Moods and Tempos

The future of each student is influenced by his teachers. The part of himself that a teacher gives his student, whether great or small, enriches his student's future. A teacher provides the tools of knowledge and the guidance with which a student may develop his talents and his abilities. If one teacher can present a challenge to a student so that his future is made better, then all his years of giving are rewarded. The teachers at Lamar realize this responsibility to the students of today. They do provide the tools of knowledge and the challenge. They generate the activity which surrounds a Lamar student's academic life. With its excellent faculty and carefully planned classes, Lamar is able to maintain its high standard of academic excellence. Lamar offers a greatly varied curriculum with the opportunity to become familiar with many different interests and to become acquainted, in depth, with several. A great part of Lamar's academic activity is in mathematics and the sciences. In courses ranging from algebra and geometry to such advanced courses as elementary analysis and calculus, students learn to think logically and to understand the how and why of the mathematical theory. A new course, computer math, is also offered this year. Lamar's science department challenges students to understand the phenomena of nature. As the future of the world depends more upon the developments in science, a concise, intricate knowledge is required. In keeping with these demands, Lamar offers knowledge in biology, chemistry, physiology, and physics. Lamar's physical education department reflects the Greek emphasis on the importance of the sound body as well as the sound mind. The boys' athletic department offers such widely diversified activities as football, basketball, baseball, and soccer. The girls are offered such equally varied activities as tennis, basketball, volleyball, modern dance, and swimming. It is imperative that as they develop a sound physical body, the students of Lamar develop the strong qualities of the mind that are derived from fierce but fair competition. In addition to its intellectual knowledge, Lamar offers a practical knowledge. Lamar has an excellent practical arts department which offers skill in vocational agriculture, typing, drivers' education, distributive education, and in the National Defense Cadet Corps. Lamar has a right to be proud of its bustling academic activity.

Creativity

In a world of rapid changes and in one which emphasizes material values, there is little time to stop and enjoy the aesthetic side of life. Men and women who keep pace with an active, demanding society have little chance to appreciate a beautiful painting, a piece of music, or an inspiring piece of literature. Yet these are the beauties of life which make it most worth living. The ability of man to create great works of art is one of the greatest gifts he has received. Any work into which a man puts all his ingenuity and creativity and from which he receives a great satisfaction is a work of which no one can deprive him. This is a work that satisfies his soul. Lamar offers many courses from which a student can derive this feeling of creation. For those who love music, there are several musical organizations from which to choose — band, orchestra, the Mixed Chorus, the Choralettes, the Bell Ringers, and the Madrigal Singers. For those who plan to major in music in college, a new course, music theory, is offered. Drama is available to those who wish to create by vocal or physical expression. Art classes offer tests of a student's imagination and ingenuity as well as his artistic talents. For those who wish to create in a more practical sense, crafts class and metal works classes are offered. Girls have an opportunity to exhibit their creative abilities in a sewing or homemaking class. Much value is placed on man's need to express himself in a creative effort and from his efforts he gains much.

Reflection

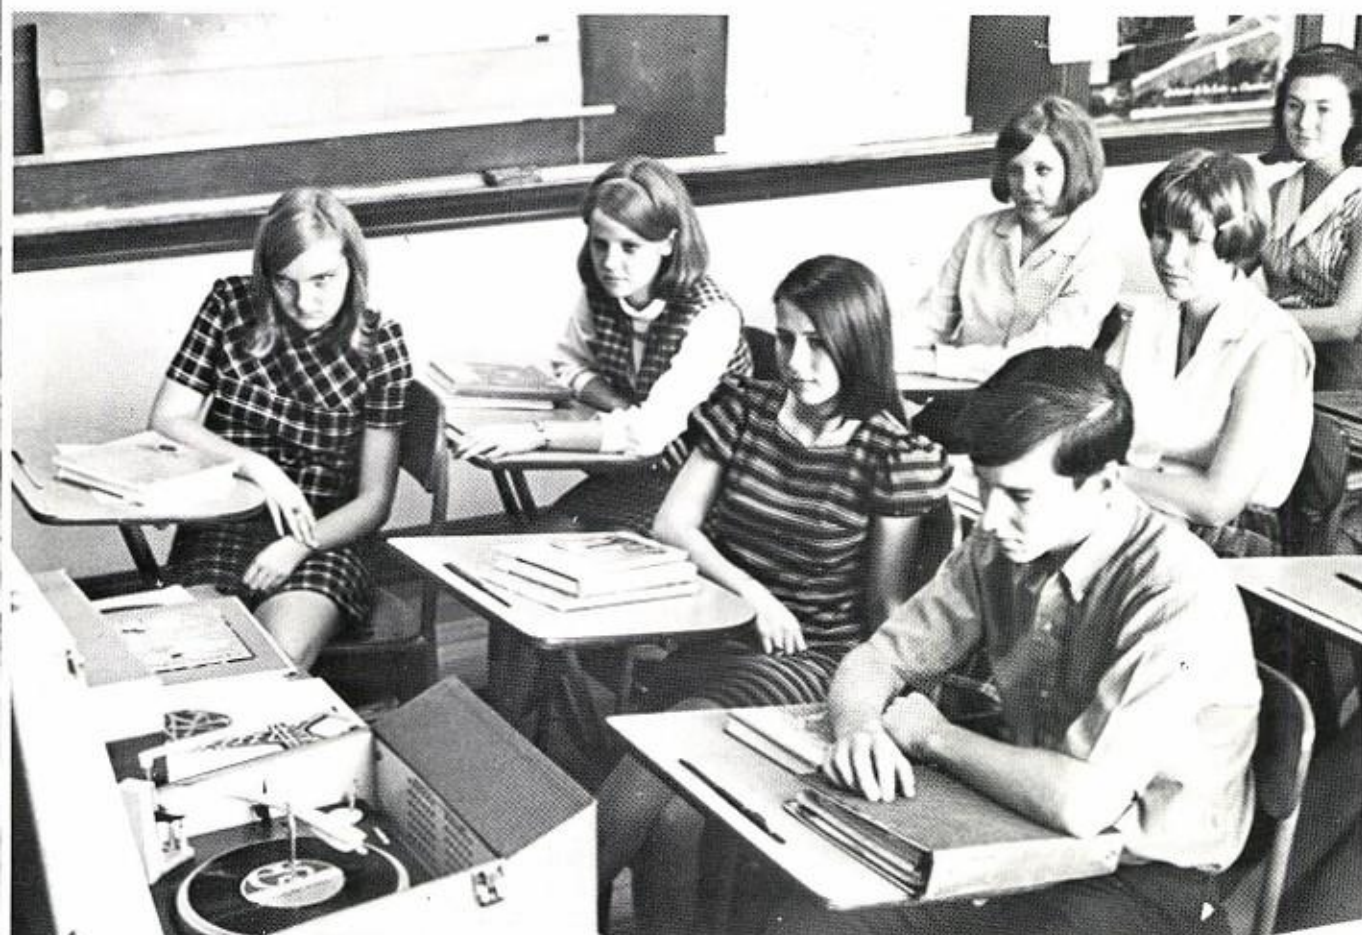

Amidst all the hustle and bustle of daily school life, there must be a time for quiet reflection. Every student needs a time to gather his thoughts and to sort out everything he has seen or heard or learned. This time is offered to the students of Lamar. As each faculty member at Lamar urges the pursuit of knowledge, he provides time for quiet and earnest study. He encourages the enthusiastic student to follow his course of study as far as possible, while he tries to instill an interest in learning to a less-eager student. A student who is striving for a well-balanced education can round it out by taking several of the many liberal arts courses offered at Lamar. The English department teaches the student to develop clear and concise self-expression. It also enables the student to study, in depth, the greatest works in literature. The foreign language department, in keeping with Lamar's idea of a broad, universal education, offers elementary as well as advanced courses in Spanish, French, German, Latin, and Russian. The civics department enables the students at Lamar to become more familiar with the theory behind our government and the ideals for which it stands. Courses in world, American, and English history are offered in the hope that the students of today will be better able to benefit from the wisdom of those who have preceded us. Journalism is offered to any student who works on the Lancer, the school newspaper, and who wishes to improve his journalistic style.

above: Bob Shepherd devotes his spare time to study in the new library. left: A fossils case in the biology museum has attracted the interest of Gerry Mangum. below: A French V class listens thoughtfully to a language tape.

The primary purpose of a student's three years at Lamar is to gain knowledge. This is the cornerstone upon which he will build his edifice of the future. Often, however, a student finds that the more he learns, the more he realizes what he does not know. Perhaps this is the point at which knowledge becomes wisdom. Knowledge is essential, certainly, for the responsibilities we will share in the future, but surely wisdom is the most essential of all.

Since the beginning of time, men have banded together in groups for one purpose or another. These organizations have been as varied as the people who have belonged to them. At Lamar there are many such groups to appeal to almost any interest that a student may wish to pursue. These activities, whether social, service, or vocational, give a student a sense of involvement with his school and his fellow classmates that will remain with him in his busy, active future.

Providing a representative type of government, the Student Council is an important link between the administration and the students. Representing the "voice of the people," elected members of the Student Council report all decisions to their homerooms.

The club is devoted entirely to serving the school by publishing the student directory, by conducting all school elections such as those for the May Fete and class officers, and by handling Orenda sales. This year the club bought a public address system for the school and plans are being made to redecorate Mr. Harold Costlow's office.

Intelligence Pays Off

Honor society members vote for new officers at the spring meeting.

James Flodine takes new members' dues at the spring Honor Society meeting.

PRESIDENT: Kelly Faloon
 VICE-PRESIDENT: Alex Kaldis
 SECRETARY: Betsy Redding
 TREASURER: Walter Bissex
 SPONSOR: Mr. Harold Tate

Members of the National Honor Society strive to encourage high standards of scholarship, leadership, and service among the students of Lamar High School.

To be eligible for the National Honor Society, one must have not more than two G's in conduct and maintain a scholastic average of 3.2 or above in his credit courses.

Each semester the society takes five per cent of the high junior, low senior, and high senior classes into membership.

Service to the school is rendered by the many members who represent the school in various music, speech and sports events as well as many other areas of competition. The members serve many hours as assistants in the administrative offices and library of the school.

This year's project has been to complete the task of supplying and installing new signs for the classrooms and administrative offices of the building.

The annual installation, at which new members were inducted, was held April 23.

The Senior Honor Society, Arrowhead, is the highest honor which a student of Lamar can attain. Only senior boys and girls with a scholastic average of 3.6 who are outstanding in leadership, loyalty, and willingness to serve Lamar are eligible. Each year at Commencement, the Arrowhead Award, a silver cup, is presented to the most outstanding Arrowhead member.

This year the members improved Lamar's appearance with new varnish for student desks and added to Lamar's spirit with the sale of car decals and book covers. This year's banquet was held at Kaphan's restaurant December 12.

Journalistic Fraternity Rewards Achievement

PRESIDENT: Jimmy Dougherty
VICE-PRESIDENT: Pam Tate
SECRETARY: Alice McGee
TREASURER: Bobby Clark
SPONSOR: Miss Louise Fuller

To be eligible for membership, a student must be at least a junior, must have a high scholastic average, must have done superior work in some field of journalistic work, and must be recommended by the sponsor.

As an international Honorary Society for high school journalists, Quill and Scroll encourages and rewards those who achieve in journalism and associated fields.

This year new members were installed at a banquet at the Safari Restaurant.

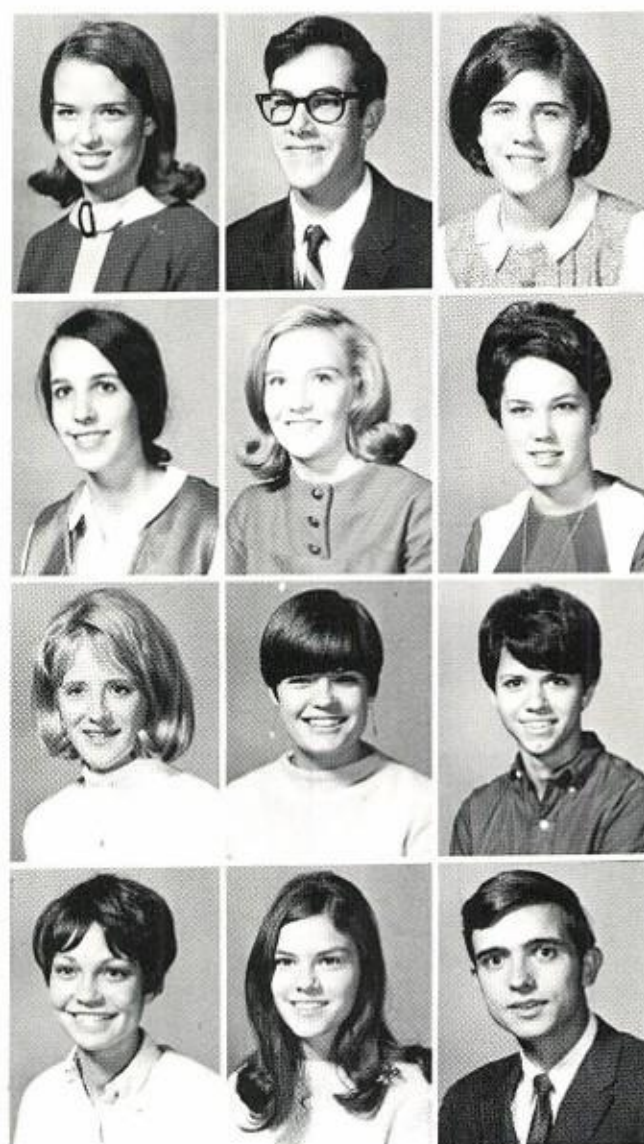

Quill and Scroll member Julie Gragg accepts her pin from President Jimmy Dougherty and sponsor Miss Louise Fuller at the annual banquet.

Blood, Sweat, and Tears Produce an Orenda

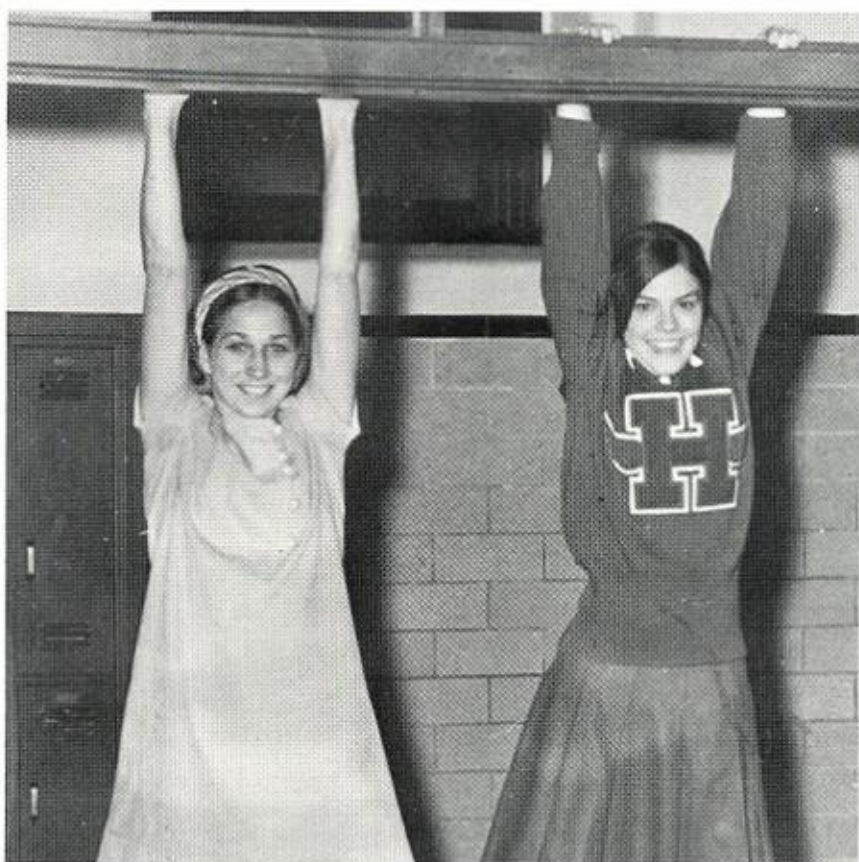

Boys' Sports Editor Donny Suman and Girls' Sports Editor Jan Journeay work very closely in the production of their pages.

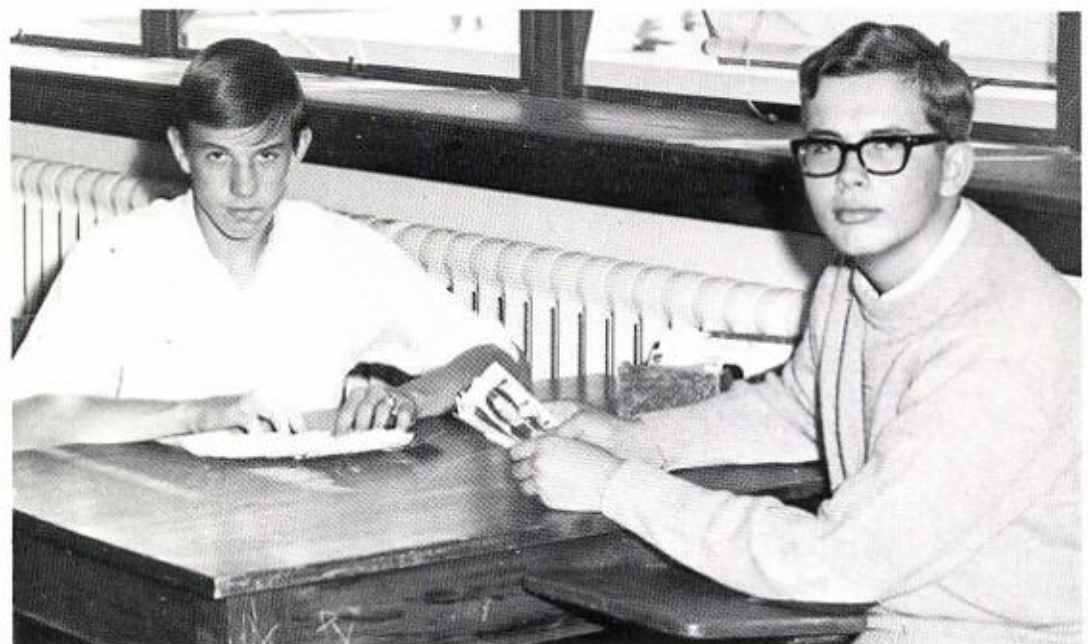

Business Staff Managers John Lay and Mary Kay Davis take a breather after balancing the books.

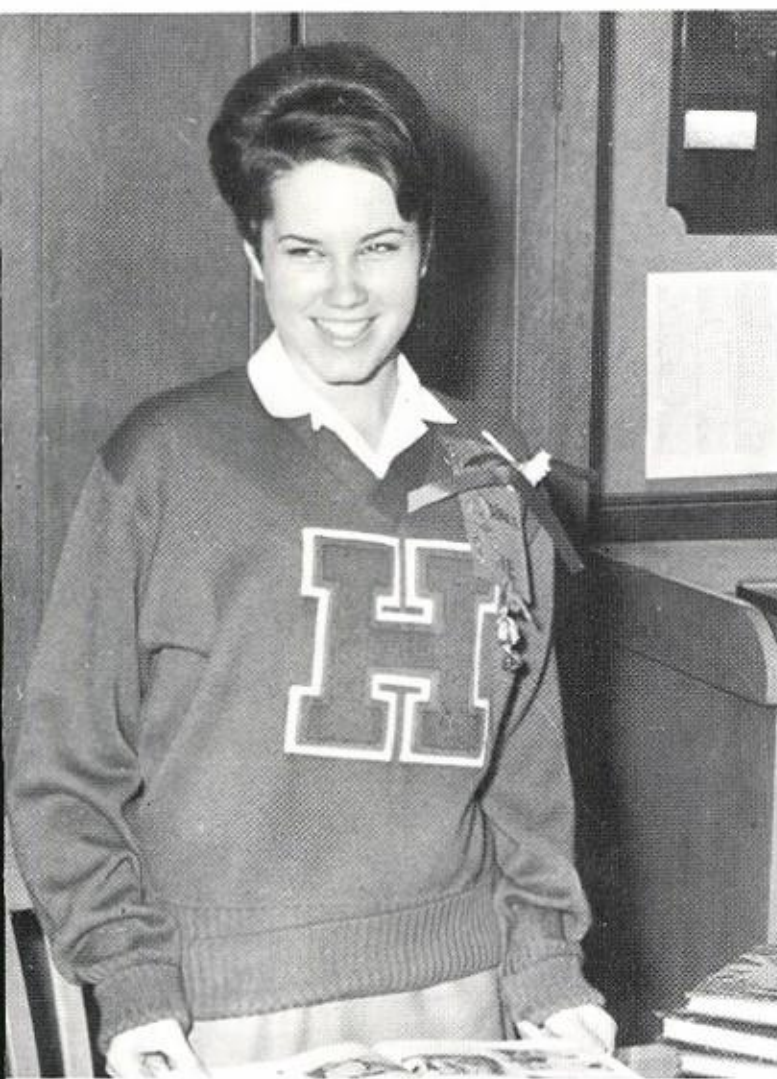

Club Editors Barbara Brady, Mike Wheeler, and Alexandra Kaldis smile at the thought of the end of deadlines.

Robbie Hervey and Pam Tate, Senior Class Editors, hang in suspense waiting for their pages to return from the printer.

Faculty Editor Don Babel and General Staff Assistant Robert Pulley think seriously before they begin the job of cropping pictures.

Editor Allyson Priest thumbs through previous Orendas in hope that her ideas will not be repeats.

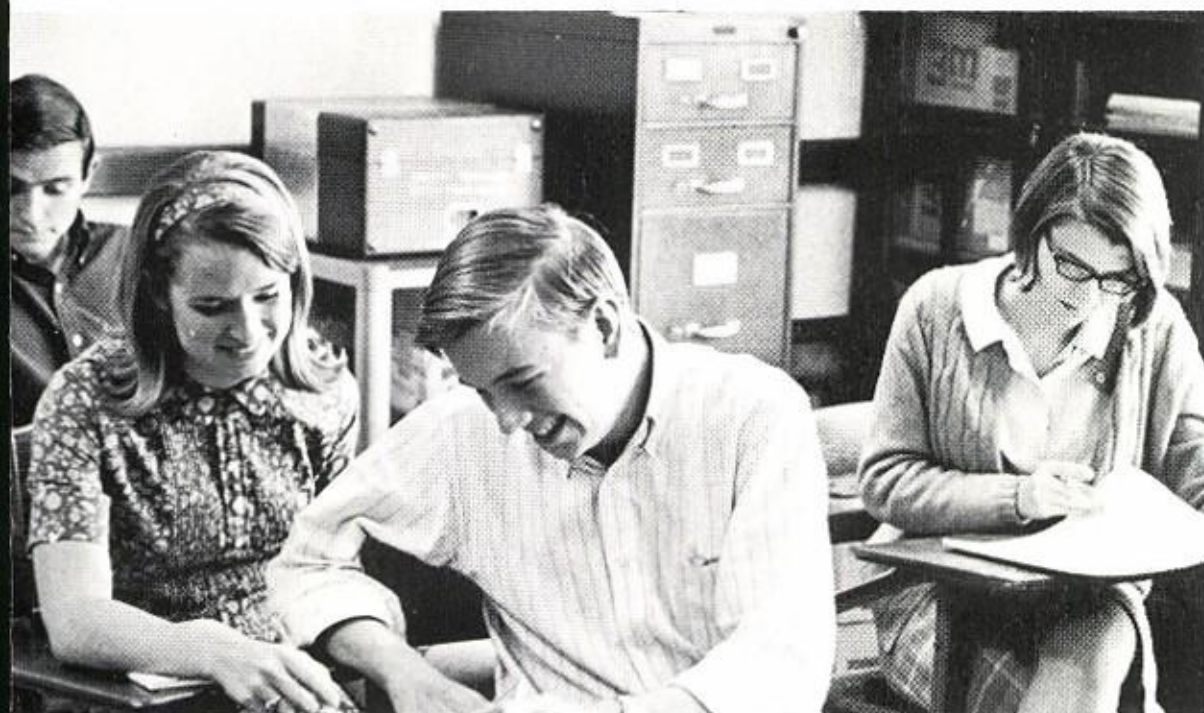

Life Editors Beverly Brady and Carol Noel sort out pictures and select ones for this year's book.

The last pages of the Orenda go to press in mid-spring, after the staff's exhausting rush of planning layouts, cropping pictures, meeting deadlines, and straightening accounts. The entire staff hopes that their work will result in a book which will bring high ratings from contest judges and from the student body. The 1967 Orenda won First Place Certificate in the Columbia Scholastic Press Association Contest and an All-Texas Honor Rating in the Texas High School Press Association State Yearbook Contest.

The stress and strain of deadlines proves too much for Junior Editor Alice McGee and Sophomore Editor Irene Beasley, who prepare to jump.

Business Staff members King Waters, Phyllis Koenig, Brad Duff, and Becky Alvis work diligently to make ends meet.

Daily Work Supplies News

Typists Kathy Shepherd, Lisa Tuttle and Teresa Barnes work hard to meet the paper's deadlines.

Reporters Barbara Selke, Claudia Hitchcock, Carolyn Embry, Beth Halphen, Suzanne Olsen, and Robert Doggett improve their journalistic vocabulary with the help of a dictionary.

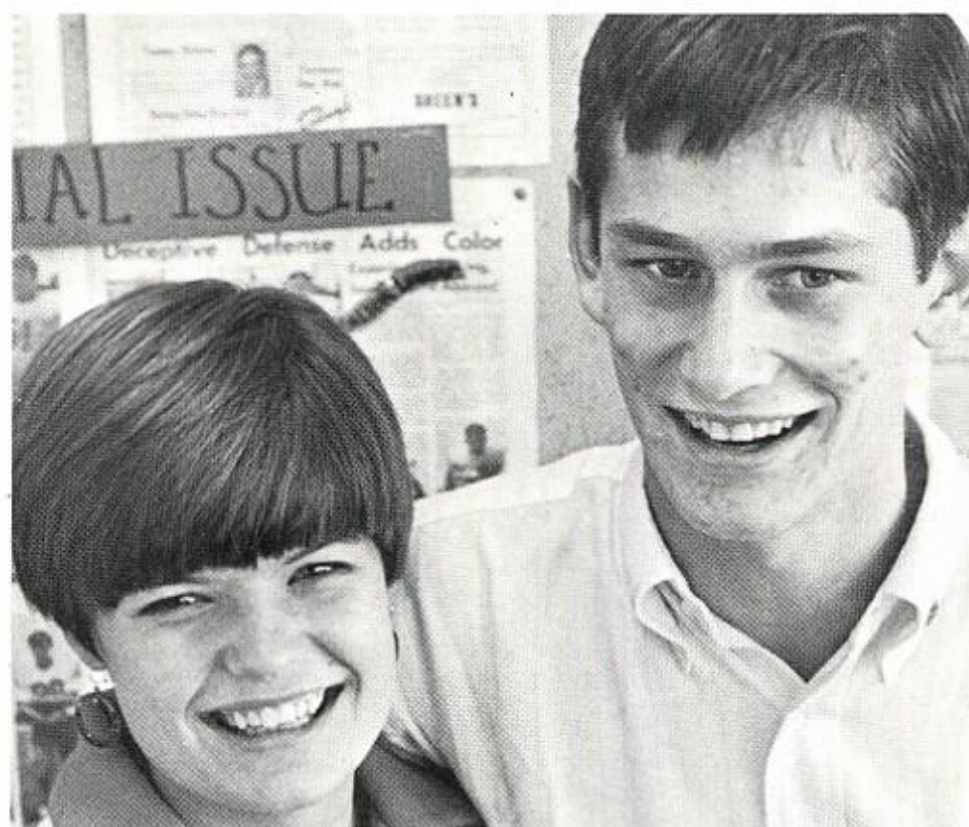

Editorial Editor Don Adams, News Editor Nancy Martin, and Feature Editor Betsy Redding compare ideas for future editions of the Lancer.

Editor Jim Dougherty inks the press to get the paper out on time.

Associate Editors Bess Reynolds and Bobby Clark smile, even though the prospect of meeting deadlines is grim.

Lamar's newspaper, the Lancer, is published by two staffs — an editorial staff and a business staff. Under the direction of Miss Louise Fuller, the staffs, consisting of students from the journalism classes and student body, produce a bi-monthly paper.

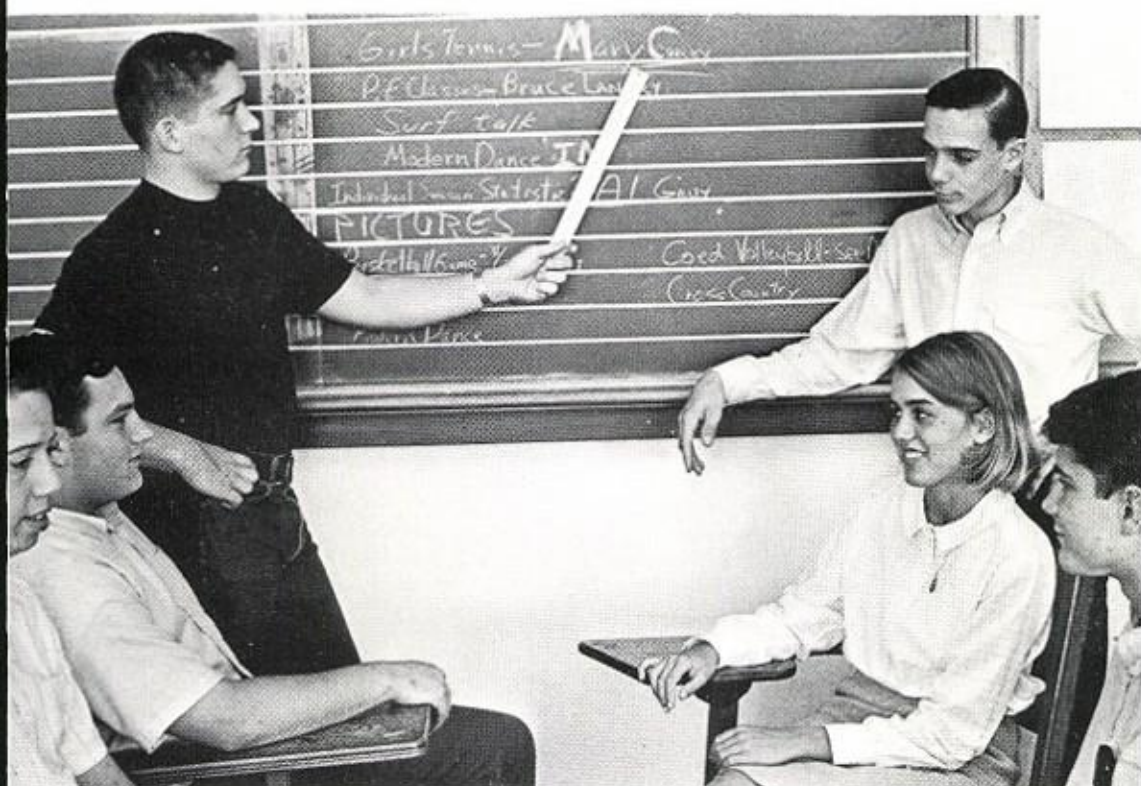

The business staff keeps records of ads and subscriptions, sells ads, encourages support of advertisers, and distributes the papers to the subscribers.

The Editor and Managing Editor supervise reporting, editing and making up at the printer. The page editors are responsible for organizing the pages by approximating the length of stories and writing eye-catching headlines.

The real workers of the staff are the reporters. They observe, interview, and listen in order to write items of common interest to the student body. Without them, the editors would have nothing to work with, and the Lancer could not be published on time.

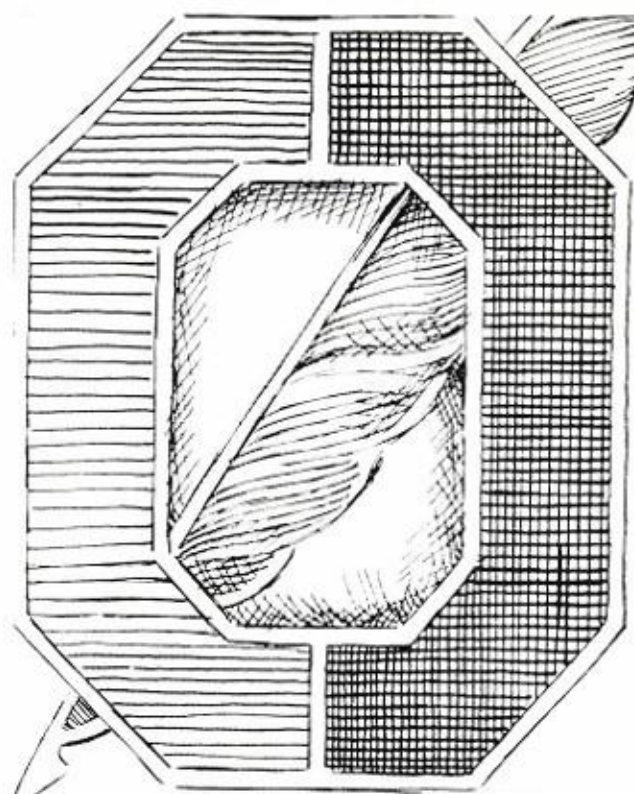

Lancer Business Staff members Diane Read, Karen Parrish, Ricky Roquemore, Sue Long, Cynthia Patterson, Bill Bruce, and Irene Dohoney create new advertising techniques for Lancer sales.

‘O’ Association

The "O" Association is an organization of outstanding Orenda staff members. At the annual Orenda banquet, "O's" are awarded to not more than seven senior staff members whose co-workers have noted them worthy of this honor.

French Honor Society members attend a Christmas tea given in honor of the former sponsor, Mrs. Rolande Leguillon.

French Pastry Adds Pounds

Members of the French Honor Society are "A" students in third-and fourth-year French who are eager to perfect their knowledge of France — her history, her literature, and her spoken language.

The club meets once a month to hear a French speaker, to see a French-language film, or to enjoy a social activity. The program this year included a French film, three speakers, a Christmas party to honor the former sponsor, Mrs. Rolande Leguillon, a picnic in March, a banquet at Maxim's in April, and "French Night" in April for parents and friends. One of the special activities was the sale of French pastries every Monday to make money to complete the Record Library of poems and plays studied in the fourth year.

The club took an active part in Foreign Language Week in April. It also presented poems and songs to other French classes.

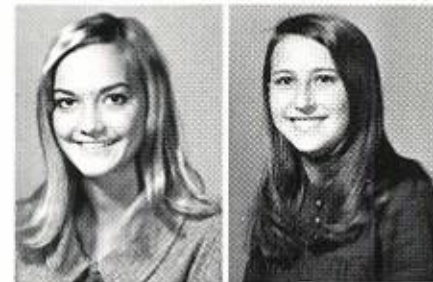

The publicity department kept the club informed of current French art exhibits, and of speakers, plays, and films sponsored by Houston's three universities and the Alliance Francaise. Films and other aids were supplied by the Office of Cultural Services of the French Consulate. Knowledge of France today was increased by corresponding with French lycee students who are studying English.

Latin Honor Society officers this year are Treasurer, Ginger Vincent; Vice-President, Tony Maresca; President, Don Adams; and Secretary, Jan Fred.

Latin Honor Society members Byron Barnes, Chris Boone, Gavin Hogan, Gloria Foty, and Kathleen Larmore take a break from their studies with a walk in the parking lot.

The Latin Honor Society brings together a highly select group of students from all grade levels. Their common interest is the study of Roman culture through its language and literature.

In the fall of each year, new members are inducted at a banquet which takes a few liberties with the written record of history.

In addition to a spring party, the Latin Honor Society awards a prize to the best Latin student in second, third, and fourth-year Latin.

As the sophomore drama club, Kachina presents opportunities for students interested in the theater to be cast in plays and to work with technical aspects of drama. Kachina was also the main source of help at the Lamar Forensics Tournament February 2 and 3.

Every year at the club's banquet a special award is presented to the most outstanding Kachina boy and girl. This year was scattered with various work parties to stimulate interest among sophomores and to prepare them for the junior and senior years.

Open to any student interested in the arts and crafts, the Artisans Association endeavors to promote interest in these areas by providing a guest speaker every meeting.

Meetings are held the third Thursday of every month to inform the members of the cultural events in the community and to develop an appreciation for contemporary art.

Dramatists Present Colorful Productions

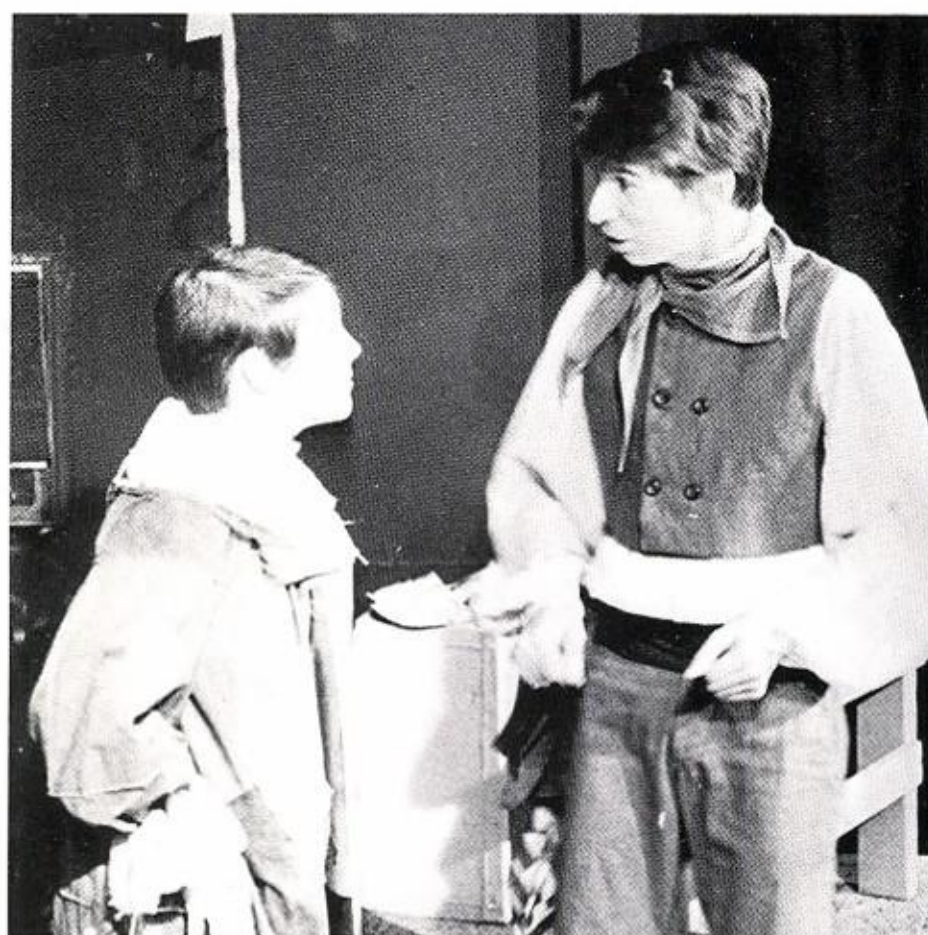

Lisa Dillingham ponders quietly in a scene from "Red Shoes."

Hard work both on and off the stage is the requirement for membership in the National Thespian Society. Membership in the club is the highest honor one can attain in high school dramatics. Working closely with the art and music departments, the club organizes the stage productions at Lamar. This year the Thespians presented "Red Shoes" and "Little Mary Sunshine."

The aim of the club is to create an active interest in the high school theater, to develop appreciation for it, and to improve its quality.

Der Deutsche Verein members Roger Smith, Patty Robertson, and Kit Reynolds participate in the presentation of the puppet show "Hansel and Gretel."

To become acquainted with German culture and language, students taking German belong to Der Deutsche Verein. The club is affiliated with the Texas Association of German Students, which sponsors summer trips to Germany for students who desire to work there.

This year, the members wrote a German script of "Hansel and Gretel" and produced a puppet show for the German classes. Movies and slides of Germany and its customs were featured at club meetings. A polka party was the highlight of spring semester activities.

To acquaint students with and to introduce them to careers in medicine are the purposes of Future Nurses of America. The club endeavors to help students discover the various fields offered and the requirements for entry into each. Field trips to medical institutions and health agencies and speakers from the various health organizations help accomplish the purpose.

The club sponsors a scholarship each year for a deserving girl who plans to be a nurse. The money for this was raised this year through dues and candy sales.

Fun Fills Rodeo Schedule

The Rodeo Club is organized for students interested in riding and rodeoing. The club sponsors hay rides, dances, and barbeques. This year the club sponsored a dance at the Cinco Ranch. Members represent Lamar by participating in various rodeos and events such as Rodeo Sweetheart; barrel races; calf roping; and bronc, bull, and steer riding. The Rodeo Club assists the F.F.A. chapter in presenting the Lamar F.F.A. Project show. Rodeo club members also attend the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo. This year's Rodeo Club is one of the largest in the history of Lamar. The Rodeo Club adds color and spirit to Lamar in furthering our Texas heritage.

Astronomers Build Observatory

Astronomy Club officers Mike Cochran and James Flodine experiment with the Van de Graaff generator.

Lamar's Astronomy Club, founded in 1955, is open to all students interested in astronomy or physics. Members have built Houston's only observatory and have acquired two of the largest and finest telescopes in the city. In addition to field meets at the observatory, members often observe, time, and record phenomena, meteors, and comets. During this year members have observed one lunar eclipse and a meteor shower. The club also participated in activities with the Houston Astronomical Society.

Librarians Help Finance New Library

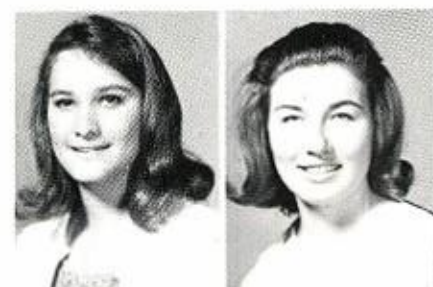

Mary Ann Carroll and Nelly Stephan examine some new books in the library.

The purpose of Wowapi, the library club, is to promote interest in the library. In 1952, the name Library Club was changed to Wowapi, which means Painted Book. Wowapi is responsible for bulletin boards in the library and in the hall and for the observance of Book Week at Lamar.

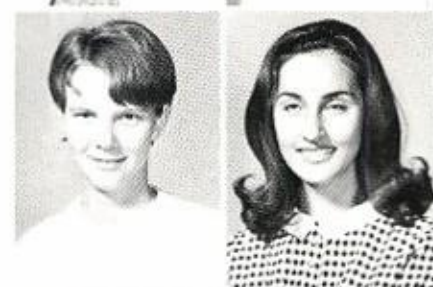

This year the club sold candy in the fall as its first money-making project. Also, members decorated the library for Open House, when over two hundred books were displayed. During the fall semester members were busy making products for a boutique they had at Market Square in December.

The main purpose of Future Teachers of America is to enable Lamar students who are interested in considering teaching as a career to learn more about this profession. The club is organized to understand the history and objectives of our public schools.

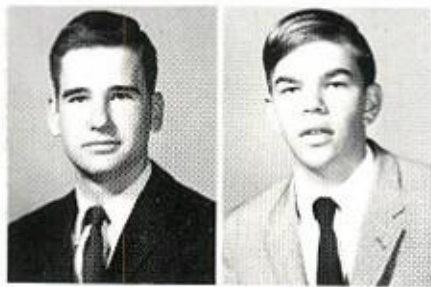

Members acquire personal experience in the field of teaching by serving as teacher assistants. Future Teachers of America was organized in 1964 under the guidance of Mrs. Ann Storey.

Education Is the Key to Success

Larry McNeill points out a good idea to Mr. Charles McDonough at a Key Club meeting.

The Key Club is a service club for men which strives to build good citizens and strong leaders. This club is unique because it is sponsored in cooperation with the school officials by a local Kiwanis Club. Two members of the club attend Kiwanis Club luncheons every week. The Key Club motto is "We Build." A "B" average and an "E" in conduct are required for membership. The club holds regular meetings with an informative or inspirational program.

Lamar's Christian Student Union has as its purpose to learn and discuss the Christian principles with the aim of encouraging the student to apply these principles in his life, no matter where he may be.

Membership in the Christian Student Union is open to all who wish to attend the meetings at 7:45 every Tuesday morning in the auditorium. Outstanding citizens, businessmen, and athletes discuss experiences in their Christian lives.

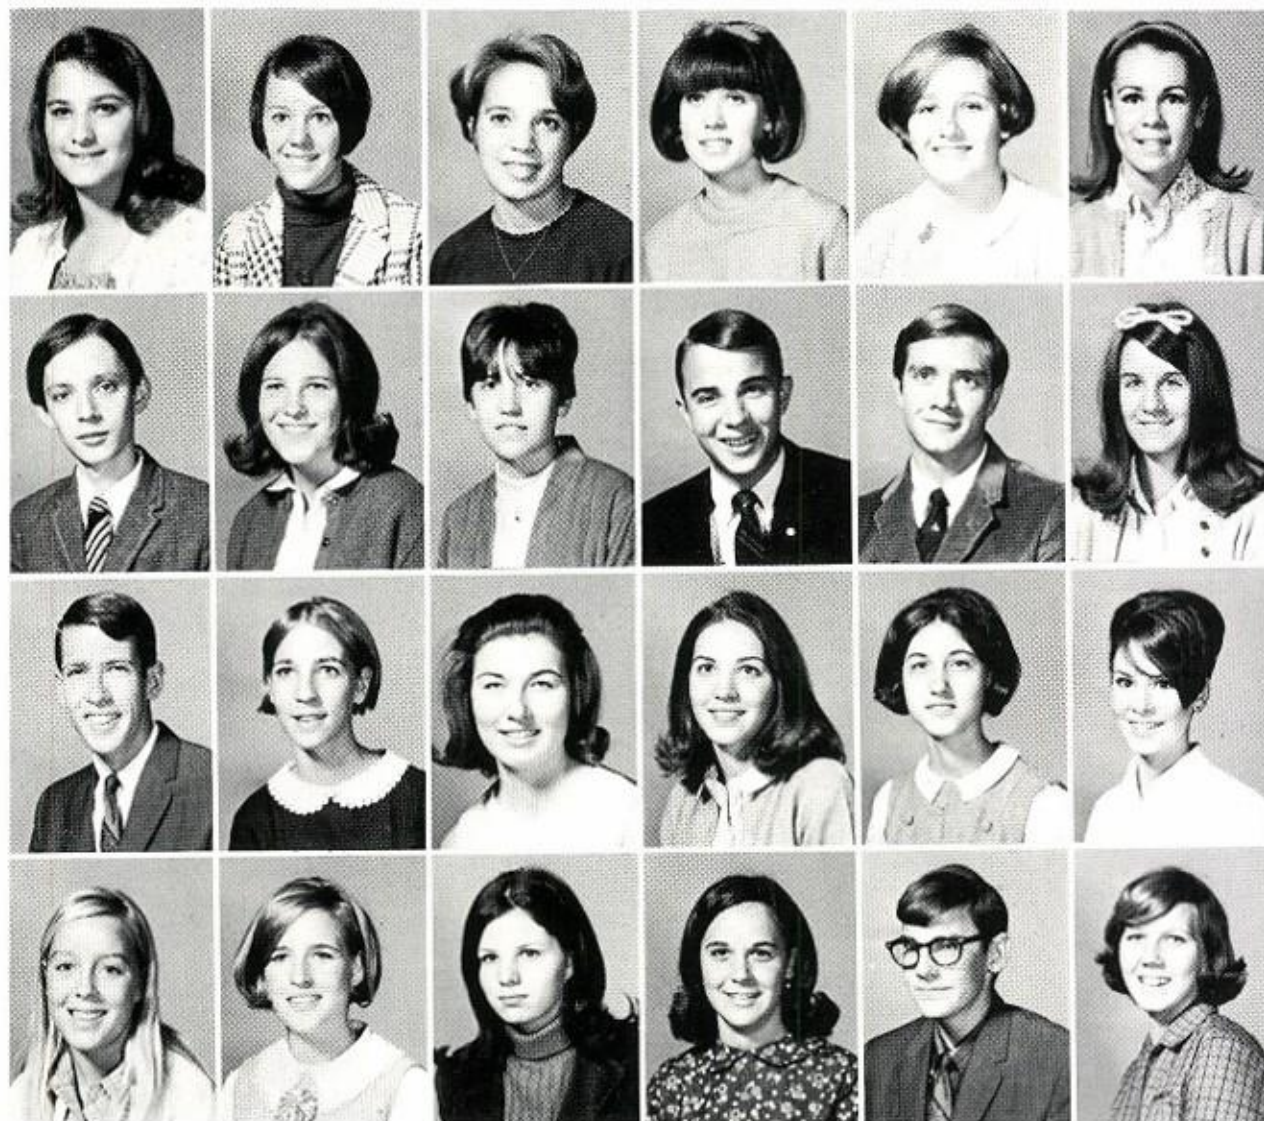

The Christian Union helped several needy families during this academic year. Members also gave the Bible reading each morning during homeroom.

Distributive Education is designed to develop future leaders for marketing and distribution. The club, a national youth organization in the public schools, strives to develop a respect for the free, competitive-enterprising system, to place persons in useful distributive occupations, and to prepare them for continuing development in the professions.

These objectives are achieved through local, state-wide, and federally supported vocational training programs. The annual program includes an Employer-Employee Banquet, City-Wide Initiation Ceremony and an Assembly Fashion Show presentation.

Drum major John Sharp led the Lamar Redskin Band.

Under the direction of Mr. Al Isaacson, the Lamar Redskin Band has completed another successful year of competition and performance. The Band serves the school in many ways. It plays at all pep rallies and presents half-time entertainment at all football games.

The organization participates in University Interscholastic League events such as the marching contest in the fall and the concert and sightreading contest in the spring. Originally, the Lamar Band was the ROTC Marching Band under the direction of Mr. Lee S. Kedding. In recent years it has become an outstanding performing band in the Houston area.

Mass evacuations to Choralette shows were frequent happenings during the Christmas holidays when even Santa got into the act.

Two main purposes of the Choralettes are entertainment and service. The girls have entertained and performed for many people at various places in Houston and other cities in the United States. This year the Choralettes opened the world's premiere of Walt Disney's "The Happiest Millionaire." They made two fabulous trips to the National Orange Show in California and to the Hemisfair in San Antonio, Texas. Choralettes' Jones Hall Concert was also a great success along with their various performances at the Houston Auto Show, Kiwanis Club, and the Rotary Club.

This year Sadie went to Hollywood in the annual Sadie Hawkins Dance. Clever corsages and favors were sold prior to the dance.

The Choralettes served Lamar by contributing to the United Fund and participating in the "Clean-Up" Week.

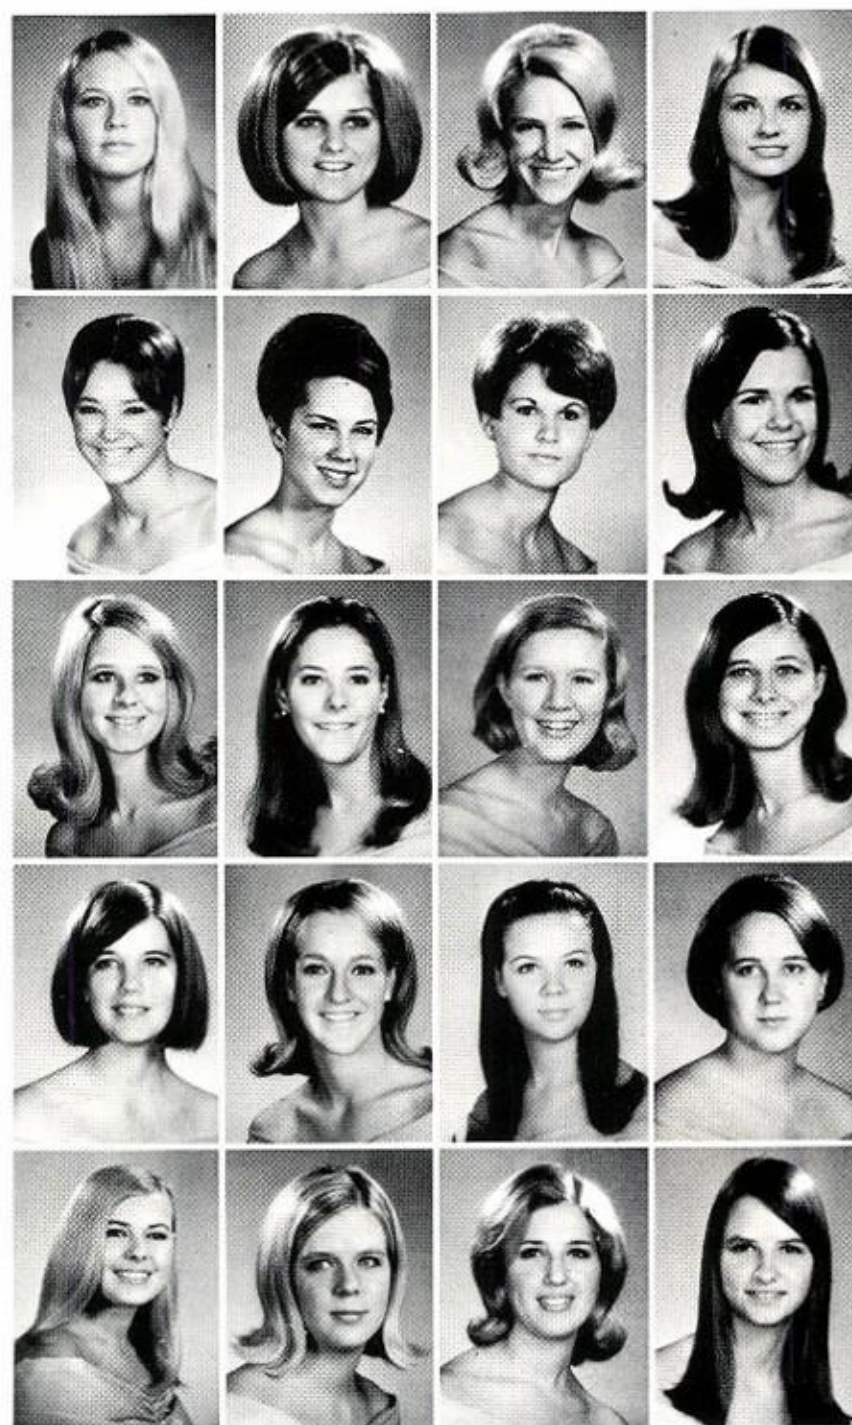

The Choralettes' performance was applauded by all at the Auto Show in the Astro Hall.

'I Left My Heart in San Francisco'

Another opening, another show. Cotton Hall, seat of the signing of the California Constitution, provided the backdrop for a concert.

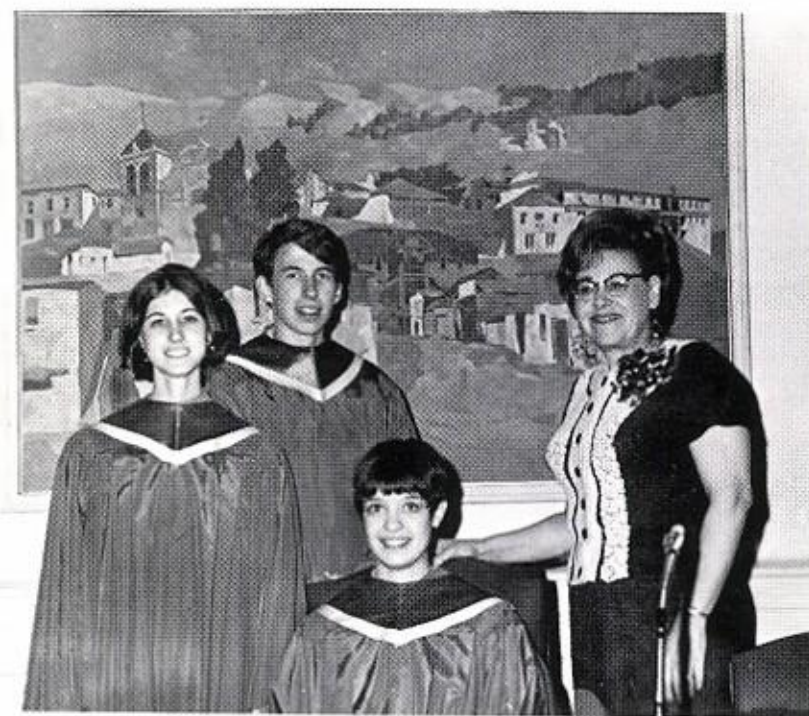

Clang, clang, clang goes the trolley. Chorus members caroled up and down the San Francisco hills on the traditional cable cars.

Over the ground lies a mantle of white. Snow fights were common in the winter wonderland of Yosemite National Park.

For purple mountain majesties. Melissa Brown and Pam Tate show ICYE Exchange Student Ingunn Halland the Pacific from atop Twin Peaks.

My, oh my, what a wonderful day. Mayor Coyle and members of the city council and chamber of commerce welcomed the group in Monterey's City Hall.

Affiliates of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Trust and Gilbert and Sullivan Society in London, the Chorus opens each year with a presentation of one of the Savoy operas. The 1967 production was "The Mikado," most popular of all the works of this well-known team.

Tour plans are traditionally announced at the Gilbert and Sullivan cast party. "California, here we come" provided the theme, for programs had been scheduled in San Francisco, Monterey, and Carmel during the Christmas holidays.

Local concerts have included appearances at Rice University, the University of Houston, the Astrodome, and Jones Hall, where the Chorus sang with the Houston Symphony; the Rice and Shamrock Hotels before delegates to national conventions; performances of Gian Carlo-Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors" and numerous programs for civic and educational groups.

Tali Shiloha bellringers (Carol Buechel, Karen Money, Elizabeth Pawley, Anna Schoettle, Pam Tate, Julia Taylor, and Judy Thrash) and Madrigal Singers (Byron Barnes, Ricky Carlson, Carol Clemmons, John Mortimer, Anna Schoettle, Brandon Smith, Suzy Thompson, and Pam Whitten) added to chorus outreach with many seasonal programs, ringing and singing daily during the pre-Christmas season.

Of major significance in spring plans was a Choral Festival April 18, 19, and 20 involving Southwest area elementary and junior high schools; "The Unicorn Gorgan and Manticore;" and special concerts by the chorus.

Service to Lamar by stressing good citizenship, promoting friendliness (with special emphasis on new students), and improving school spirit in any way possible are several main purposes of Mirabeau. The largest project is welcoming low sophomores into Lamar at the sophomore orientation. Other projects include the Mirabeau Melodrama, the cookie sales, baskets to needy families at Thanksgiving, sale of mistletoe at Christmas, and Easter baskets for the children at Dow Elementary School. Besides these many projects, Mirabeau also contributes to the United Fund and sets aside a scholarship for a deserving Lamar co-ed who will be graduating in the spring. Mirabeau's further activities include a fall and spring banquet.

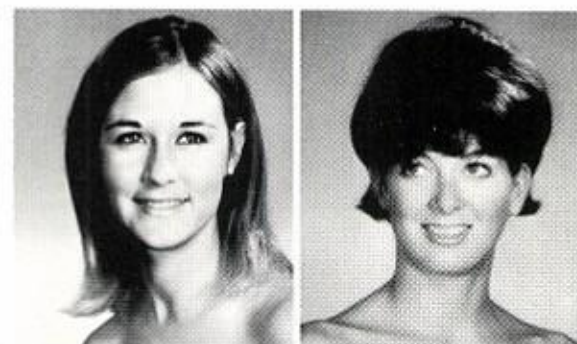

Mooks Julie Gragg, Kim Bolles, and Jackie McDowell are getting used to carrying huge loads of books during initiations.

Niwauna's purpose is to give charity where charity is needed, to serve Lamar and its students, and to cooperate fully with any projects in the interest of Lamar. In the fall, Niwauna sold hero mums for the Lee game and teacher mums for Homecoming. At Thanksgiving, the club helped a needy family by contributing food and clothing. The highlight of the fall was a "Gone With the Wind" theater party for all members. The Niwauna singing Valentines, looked forward to by Lamar students, were featured February 14. In the spring, Niwauna sponsored baseball games and organized an Easter party for charity. The annual banquet in May climaxed the year's activities.

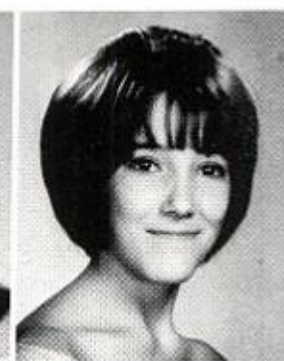

Niwauna members Kathy Simms, Alice McGee, and Mary Helen Craig load the traditional Niwauna Thanksgiving basket for an underprivileged family.

Palamar endeavors to foster school spirit, work for honor and loyalty to school and club, and to develop in each member initiative, a sense of responsibility, and a spirit of co-operation. By doing this, Palamar strives to live up to its motto, "Perfection, Loyalty, and Merit."

Palamar girls sold slogan slips for the football games and sponsored the King of the Court contest for basketball in the winter. Baskets were distributed to the needy at Thanksgiving and Christmas. An Easter party was given for retarded children and a new trophy case was presented to the school. Donations to the library, United Fund, T.B. Drive, and Cheerleaders' Fund were also some of their worthy projects. Palamar's many social activities included the annual formal dinner-dance in the winter, the banquet, and a Mother-Daughter Tea in the spring.

A group of new Tawasi members has just been formally installed in a beautiful Tawasi installation.

"Tawasi" means friendship. Tawasi members try to live up to this symbol by using friendship to promote school projects which better their club and school. Tawasi provided the Orientation maps for the incoming sophomores. To promote school spirit and support the football team this year, the club furnished the giant banner on the stage for each pep rally. Tawasi Easter-grams raised money in the spring for the club's charity project. Members attended a coke party during the Christmas holidays. The Tawasi Cup was awarded to the most outstanding junior boy at the end of the year.

Wichaka Serves as Lee Game Sponsors

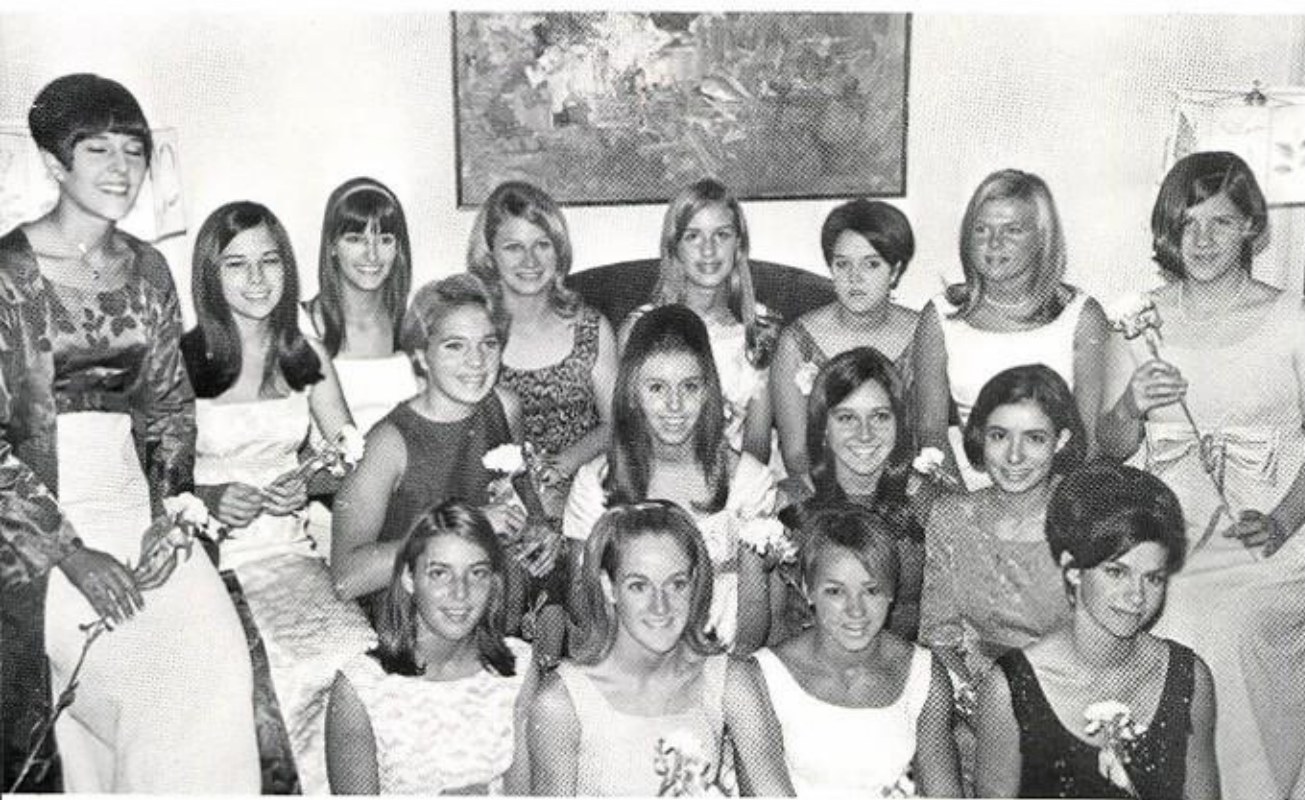

Wimps Sally Beissner and Kathryn Allen "ham it up" in the parking lot during initiations.

Wichaka, meaning "to be true," is the name of Lamar's oldest social service club. Wichaka made donations to many charitable funds and gave parties for underprivileged children at Christmas and Easter. Social activities included formal installation ceremonies, a back-to-school brunch, and a spring banquet. Wichaka sponsored the Lee football game and sold the very popular "Lee Shall Die" pep pills. Members sold cookies, candy, and hot chocolate during the winter months to raise money. In the spring Wichaka held a Field Day and a Jelly Bean Day to elect a king and queen. Wichaka also awarded the David Fenwick White Memorial Cup to the most representative boy in the senior class.

Sally Brown takes a big step (over Mike Biggs, Jim Dougherty, Bobby Clark, and Jimmy Wooley) as this year's Pow Wow sweetheart.

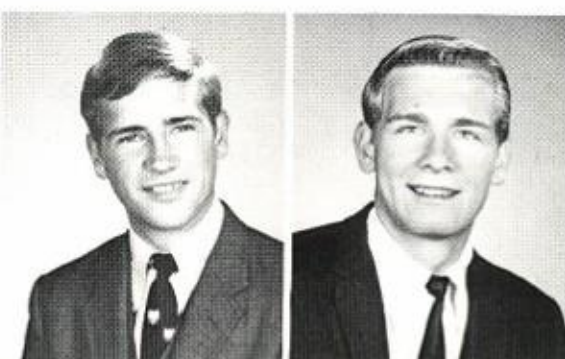

Lamar's Man's Club, Pow Wow, remained active throughout the year. During football season, Pow Wow lifted team spirit with their "fabled fearless forecast." They also sponsored the Sam Houston football game and decorated the auditorium for the pep rally. At Thanksgiving, Pow Wow gave a basket of food to a needy family, and at Christmas, they gave a party for fourth-grade students at Dow Elementary. Pow Wow donated money to the United Fund, the library, and the athletic fund. At the year's end, the club presented the K Lamar Camp Award to an outstanding senior boy for excellence in character, scholarship, and athletics.

Ramal Triumphs with Homecoming

Ramal, one of the oldest boys' social clubs at Lamar, was founded in 1943 and since then has devoted itself to maintaining the high standards for which Lamar is well known. Each spring Ramal sponsors a track meet open to all boys on campus. This year Ramal sponsored Homecoming by decorating the gym, conducting Homecoming ceremonies at the game, and having an annual dance after the game. They were also given the honor of sponsoring the May Fete Dance.

Ramal, a charitable service organization, donated to the United Fund and gave food to a needy family at Thanksgiving. Each year Ramal presents the Ramal Cup to an outstanding junior girl.

The future leaders of a company, an industry, a nation — these are the students of today. Just as any group has its outstanding members, Lamar has its own young men and women who have been recognized for unusual talent, intelligence, ability, or beauty. Though most may never achieve greatness by the world's standards, perhaps for a few their honors at Lamar are but a harbinger of things to come. These few are the students who lead the youth of today as they will lead the world of tomorrow.

The Greeks believed that the ideal life was one spent in the pursuit of excellence in all things. They accorded equal respect to mental and to physical prowess; therefore the complete man was as active in athletics as in other worthwhile endeavors. Like the Greeks, the youth of today respects the importance of athletic as well as intellectual activity. It realizes that much of one's character can be molded while competing on a football field or tennis court. Whether the immediate result is victory or defeat, lessons are learned and strengths are gained that the future will demand.

Lamar's 1967 season was a disappointment. In pre-season scrimmages Lamar looked impressive, but early injuries greatly hurt Lamar's chances. Despite these injuries Lamar played hard and Redskin fans have every reason to be proud of their team. In opening their schedule, Lamar was defeated by their arch-rival Bellaire. After defeating Lamar 40-14, the Cardinals went on to win the city championship. In their second game, the Redskins were handed their second defeat at the hands of the Williams Wolverines. The Redskins never gave up, but the passing attack of the Wolverines lead them to a 36-6 victory. Next Lamar played host to the San Jacinto Bears. Both teams played well, but mistakes gave the game to the Bears 35-14. Lamar next took on the zone champion, Kashmere Gardens. Lamar's ground game went well, sparked by the running of Bill Chilivetis and Bill Cooper. But Lamar could not stop the machine-like offense of the Rams and was defeated 42-6. Lamar was ready for the Sam Houston game. Sam Houston took advantage of a 'Skin fumble and got an early lead from which Lamar was never able to recover. Sam Houston defeated Lamar 34-7. This year, Lamar's Homecoming fell on the Reagan game. Spirit was high and the Redskins played a great game, but a last-minute safety gave the Bulldogs a 14-14 tie. The Davis Panthers were next in line. Lamar took an early lead and led most of the game. Lady Luck just was not with them that night, and two last-minute scores took the Panthers past Lamar 19-14. Lamar next began preparing for the hard-hitting Waltrip Rams. Lamar's defensive unit was sensational. They held the Rams to very short yardage rushing and passing. Lamar scored first on a one-yard plunge by Bill Cooper. The touchdown was set up by a 57-yard pass interception by safety Bill Chilivetis. Lamar seemed to come alive. Sparked by the running and receiving of Bill Chilivetis, Bill Cooper and Royal Rische and the passing of Mike Burriss, Lamar defeated Waltrip 18-13. The Lee game was certainly the high point of the year. Lee grabbed an early lead and Lamar was never able to come back. The final score was 24-13 in favor of the Generals. Lamar closed out the season with the Washington Eagles. The Redskins looked impressive in the first quarter, but again mistakes lead the Eagles past Lamar 28-14.

Even though Lamar had one of its worst seasons in years, there is still reason to be proud. The spirit on the team was tremendous. The Redskins never gave up fighting. Each practice was as if they had won the game the night before. Their spirit and determination is a tribute to them and to the coaches.

Quarterback Tommy Gooch is shaken up by this Sam Houston defender after getting away a long pass.

The Junior Varsity began this season with a few tough but inexperienced players. They were known as the "fearless fourteen." As the season progressed, so did the Junior Varsity. When the season ended, they had well over thirty players. In their first two games they met disaster at the hands of Wheatley and North Shore. San Jacinto squeaked by, but they caught Jones for a 6-6 tie. Next Reagan and Sam Houston slipped by Lamar, but their spirit never let down and they defeated Davis 14-2. Hopes were still high, but the defensive unit gave up too many points and Lamar dropped the last two games to Waltrip and Lee. Even though the Junior Varsity had a rough season, Coaches Winston Boeker and Jay Baker deserve a lot of credit for making football players out of the team.

The 1967-1968 Redskin Basketball Team, as in previous seasons, was plagued with an all-round lack of height and injuries to key players. The Redskins played most of the year without the services of center Bill Sapp and forward Larry McNeill. Even so, under the excellent direction of Coach Duke Lane, they were able to boast a .500 season. They started off well but were not able to keep up the pace. They are a fine team and deserve much credit.

Braves Gain Experience

JUNIOR VARSITY

This year's Junior Varsity, coached by Mr. Jay Baker, was a pleasant surprise. Lacking in experience, they boasted a 16-10 season record. Although they did not have an impressive season, they provided keen competition for all opponents. The skill and knowledge learned will surely make them ready for next year's Varsity.

SOPHOMORE

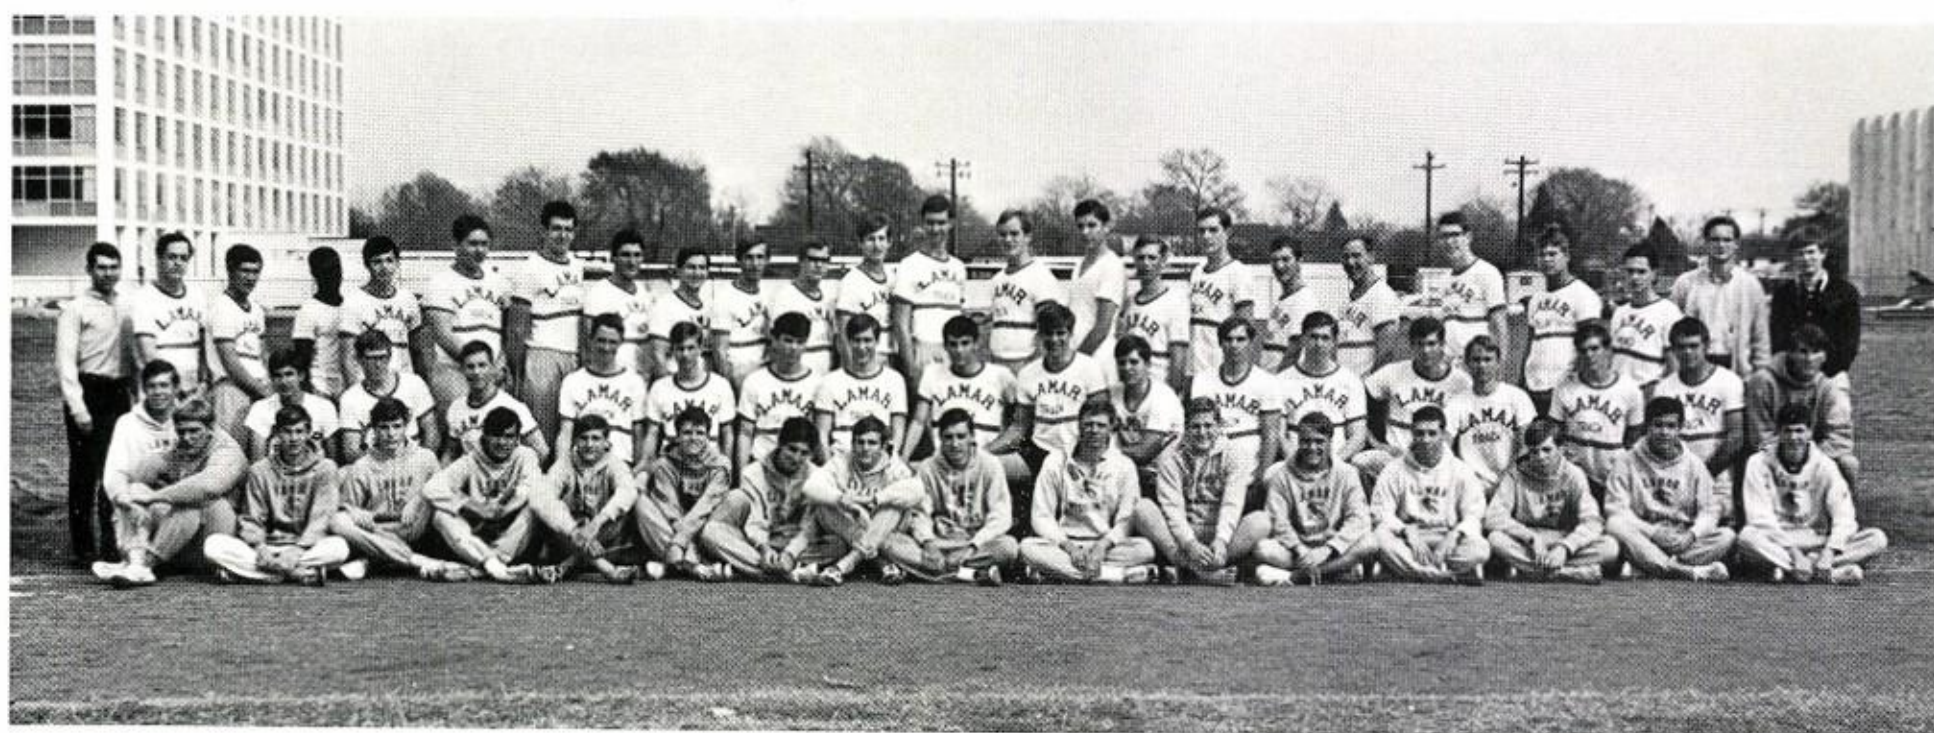

Coach Baker's Sophomore team this year was an even more pleasant surprise. They went undefeated, winning seventeen games. This fine young group of cagers showed great potential and desire. The valuable experience they gained on the Sophomore team will provide a storehouse of talent for future Redskin basketball teams.

Young Men in a Hurry

Coach Jim Hart has another fine track team this year. With the return of ten lettermen, including the sprint relay team, Lamar should take the District title as in seasons past. Lamar's top pole-vaulter, Bob Shepherd, was injured early in the season and is expected to be able to compete by the District meet. The team started out slow this year, with an early spring training hampering workouts, but with football over the future looks promising. Lamar placed well in the Memorial Relays and the Brazosport Relays. Next comes the high point for Lamar runners, the Redskin Relays. With over twenty schools entered, it is one of the most exciting meets of the year. Coaches Jim Hart, Winston Boeker, and Jay Baker have done a great job and are to be commended. With Lamar's speed on the track and their fine coaches, they will surely have a successful season.

Winning Is a Tradition

The 1968 baseball season looks very promising for Coach Dale DeHart and his team. With the return of all-city pitcher Mike Burriss, Tony Maresca, Royal Rische, Wayne Blalock, Jack Feldt, and Teddy Gilman, they have an excellent chance to win the District Championship. Lamar also has high hopes for sophomores Tom Ball, Bob Redding, Steve Mohnke, and junior moundsman Bill Kinzer. The Redskins have no problem in depth with an abundance of pitching and hitting talent. With Lamar's baseball team, winning is a tradition and this year should not be an exception.

Tankers Take a Dip

The outstanding Lamar High Swim Team continued its superb mark of excellence in its 1967-1968 season. This year's team looks even more promising than last year's. With the return of lettermen James Flodine, Tony Meyer, Pat Speck, Kelly Faloon, John Santamaria, Bill MacNaughton, Frank Salzhandler, and John Moffett there is hope for another district title. The All-State Medley Relay and the great Freestyle Relay add prestige to the team. Coach J. L. Gorman feels that his boys are in top condition and are eagerly anticipating the season to follow. These fine swimmers are a credit to Lamar.

Peter Adams warms up before workout begins.

This year's Netters are destined for success. With talent like David Cullinane, Jim Bayless, Stanley Taylor, and Jim Leiser they should surpass last year's second-place in District record. Coach Brad Gentry feels very confident this year and is anticipating an exciting season.

Golfers on the Ball

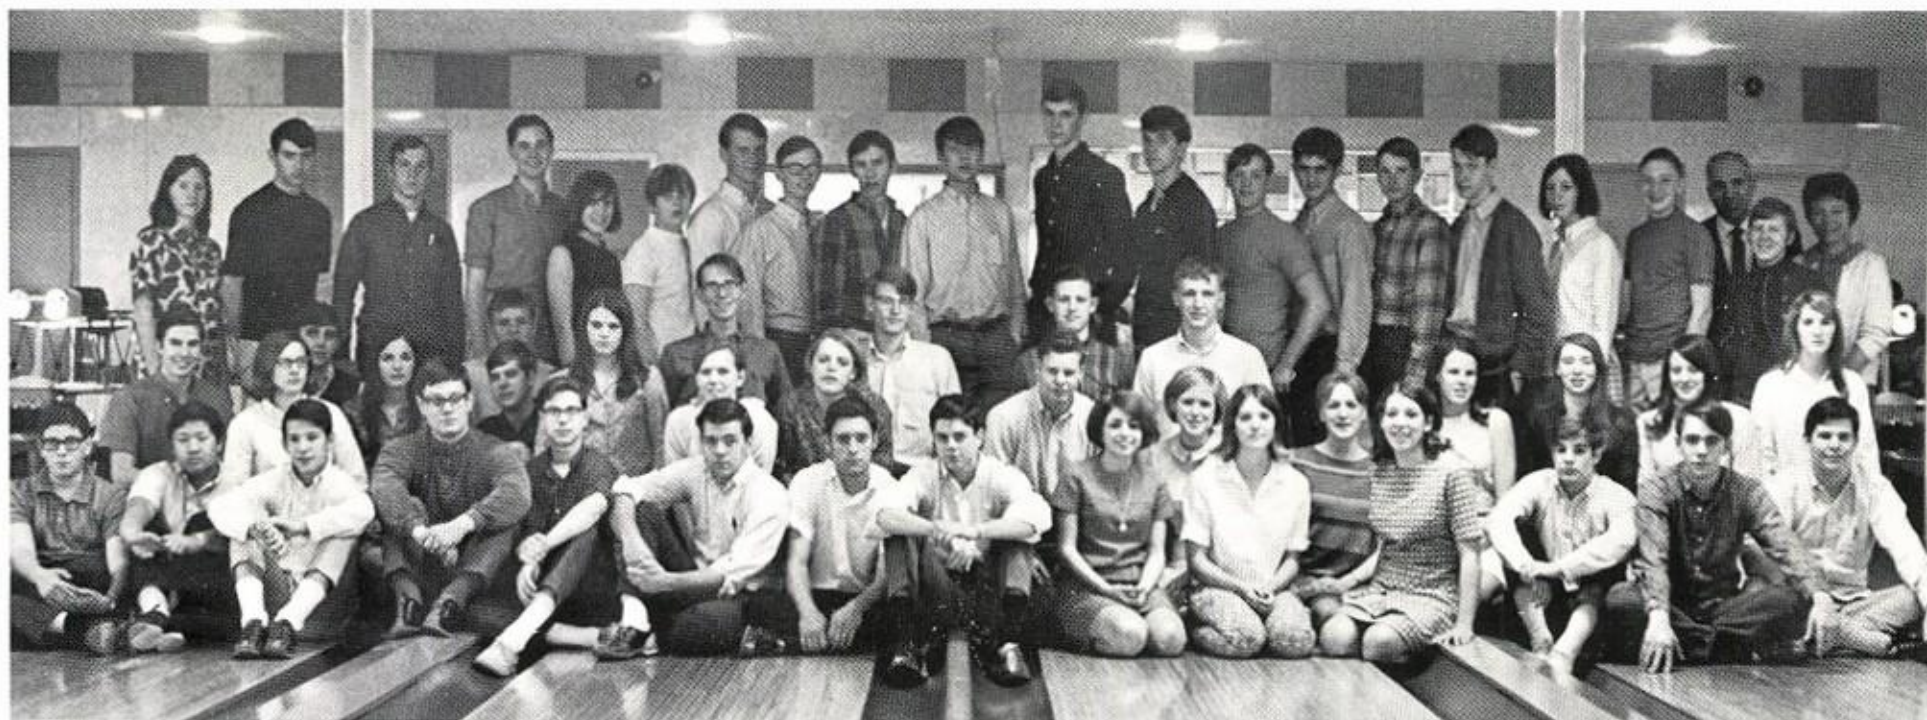

Lupe Duarte, John Mortimore, Bill Charles, Bobby Singleton, Stuart Murff, and Robert Hurst comprise this year's golf team.

Lamar's golf teams have always done extremely well. This year's team is no exception. Coach Don Longscope is optimistic about the coming season. With fine, hardworking team members such as Bill Charles and Bobby Singleton this season is sure to be a success.

Bobby Singleton tries to sink this putt to give him a par for the course.

The big turnout of hard-working bowlers this year seems to indicate a promising future for Coach Louis Dee's Bowling Team. With the return of many of last year's top bowlers and the acquisition of new talent, the squad is expected to do very well in district competition. The members of this year's team all maintain high averages and are looking forward to the coming season.

The City Tennis Team, like other City teams of Lamar, has been very successful this year. The team practiced every day after school, from February to May. In the South Houston Tournament, held February 23-24, Lamar placed second. Carter Baber, Lucille McManis, Barbara Childers, and Mary Cooley all reached the semi-finals in the Austin Jaycee's Tournament held March 8-9.

Wave Dwellers Work Toward a Common Goal

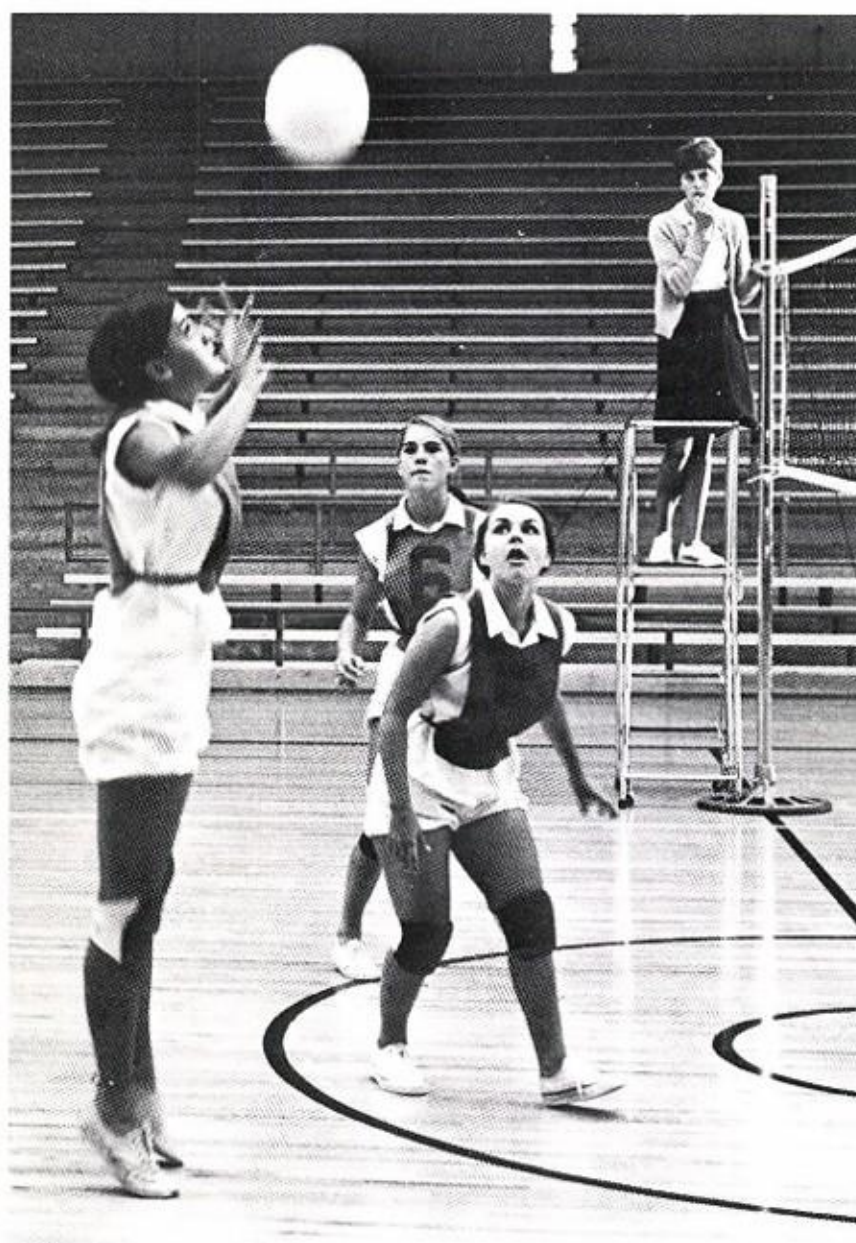

To start the season, swimmers took a first place in a meet with Milby, Jones, and Bellaire. The remainder of the season was spent in practice meets with various schools. The highlight of the swimming season was the City Swim Meet, which was held on May 8-9 at the Dad's Club. Out of twenty-three swim meets held in the past, Lamar has placed first in the city seventeen times. The Lamar team tied Bellaire for first place last year. Grueling workouts during sixth period and after school helped to improve each member's stamina and excellence.

Along with a new season came a new game schedule. All volleyball games were played at Delmar or Butler Gyms. Although the distance hampered the size of our audience, the volleyballers nevertheless had the necessary power and enthusiasm to achieve the record of five wins and one loss. Lamar won games against Lee, Belaire, Wheatley, Williams, and Madison. Their loss came from the powerful Westbury Rebels, though the most exciting moments occurred during the close Lee-Lamar game.

As the end of a school year draws near, there is a sudden spurt of activity. A round of parties must be attended, summer plans must be completed, examinations must be taken. Then, just as suddenly, the activity ends. The people are gone; the classrooms are empty. Only memories remain — memories of laughter shared, of friendships gained, of lessons learned. The life of Lamar is ended for a while, but the events and activities of the year remain a part of the rich tradition that each class passes on to those of the future.

LIFE

There's a time for some things, and a time for all things; a time for great things and a time for small things.

Life at Lamar Bustles

Christmas holidays bring parties, parties, parties.

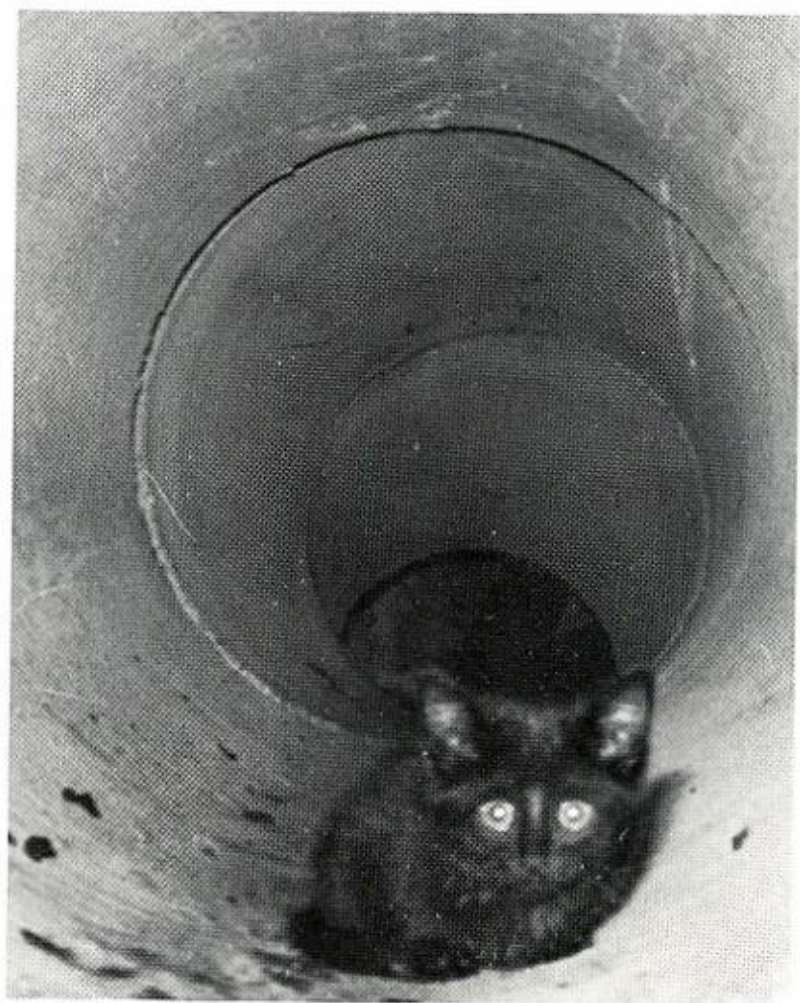

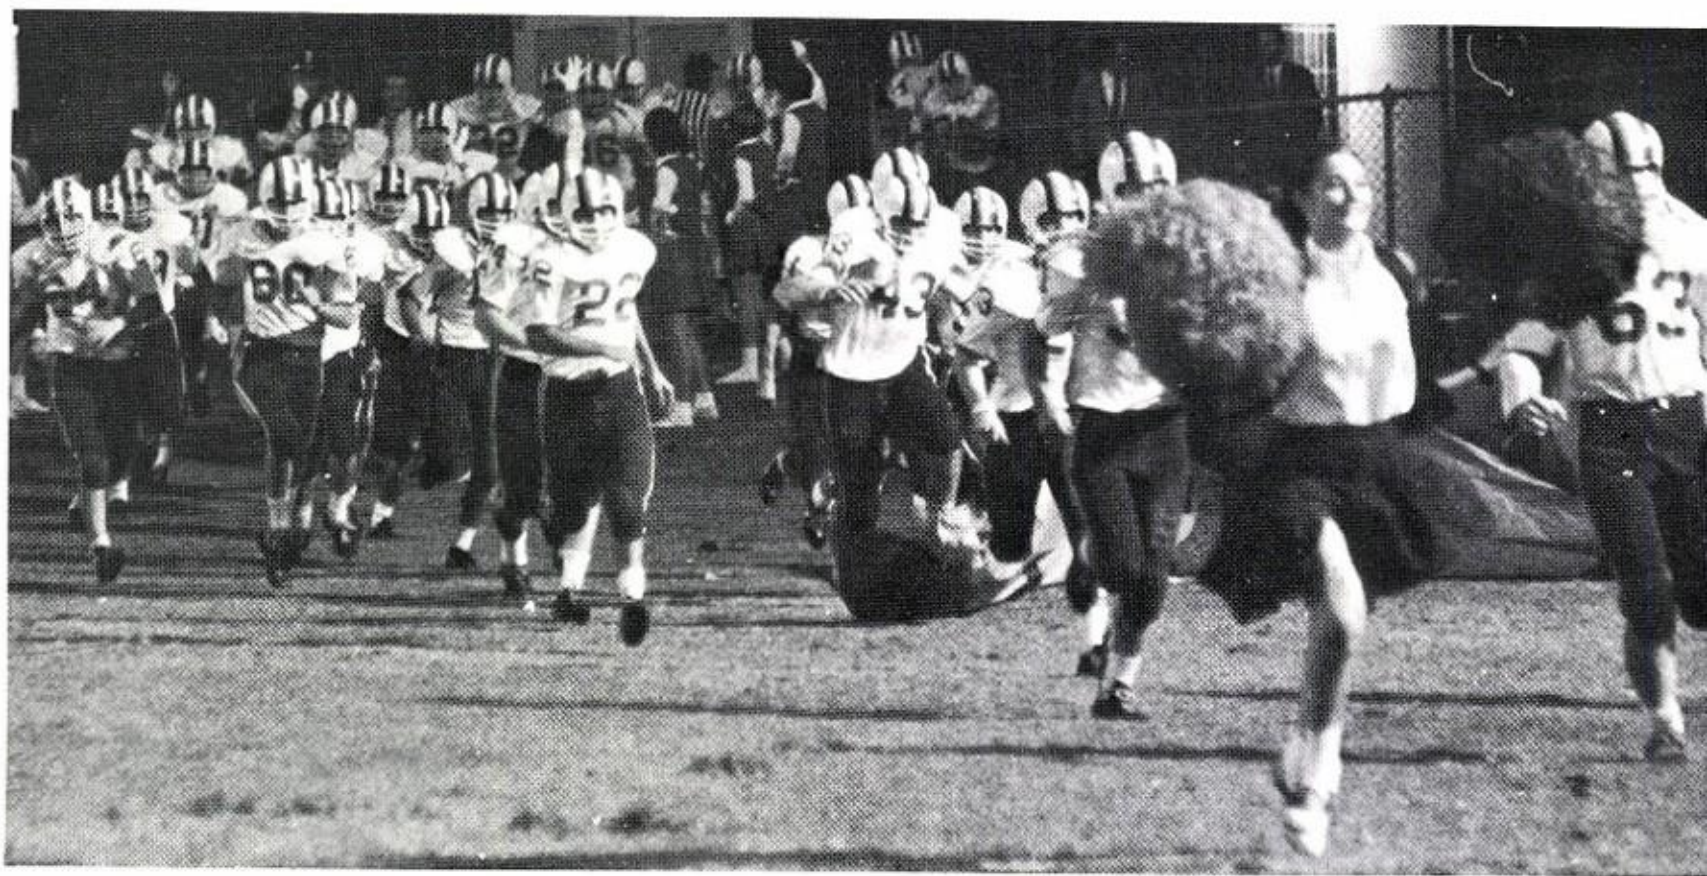

with Fun and Spirit

Lamar's teachers get into the spirit of the Lee pep rally.

Past, Present, and Future . . .

As the final deadline draws near, I have a feeling of excitement and accomplishment that I cannot express. Every member of the staff has worked many long hours in the hope that this yearbook will capture the complete story of Lamar High School, 1968. To them I will always be grateful. Beverly Brady and Carol Noel worked well ahead of deadlines to produce an imaginative Life section. Don Babel was responsible for the unusual Faculty section; Barbara Brady, Alex Kaldis, and Mike Wheeler compiled the huge Club section. The Senior section was efficiently handled by Pam Tate and Robbie Hervey; the Junior and Sophomore sections were organized by Alice McGee and Irene Beasley, respectively. The Girls' Sports section was the special project of Jan Journeay, and Donny Suman created the Boys' Sports. My deep appreciation goes to our excellent photographers — Neile Wolfe, Evin Thayer, Chris Ransom, and Mr. J. P. Crowe. They were cooperative in every way and did an exceptional job with a tremendous responsibility.

The business staff, headed by John Lay and Mary Kay Davis, very ably handled the subscription drive and finances. Members included Phyllis Koenig, Brad Duff, King Waters, Becky Alvis, and Guy Burkhart. I also want to thank Mrs. Glen Chase, the business staff sponsor, for her thoughtfulness and concern. Hendricksen's, Kaye Marvins, Roulande's, and Foley's Photoflex Studios were a constant and much-appreciated help. Mr. D-Eon Priest, representing Taylor Publishing Company, was invaluable with his creative suggestions. I want to thank the faculty and the student body for all their cooperation and support, but most of all my gratitude goes to Mrs. Iris Loep without whose patience, guidance, and advice this book would not have been possible.

Although an editor expects a certain number of problems and crises in the production of a yearbook, I must admit that I was not prepared for such a disaster as the beauty pictures going astray in Europe. For a time it looked as if there would be six blank pages in the Limelight section. I was rescued by two kind and generous benefactors in New York City who not only paid for another set of pictures but delivered them personally to Mr. and Mrs. Burton. I am also indebted to Eastern Airlines who rushed the second set of pictures to New York so that they could be judged and returned in time for the Orenda deadline. The willingness of people whom I have never met to help a high school yearbook editor with a problem almost overwhelmed me and I will be forever grateful.

It is unfortunate that our early deadline does not permit us to include many of Lamar's spring activities. The One-Act Play Contest, the Choralette show at Jones Hall and their California trip, the Mixed Chorus' production of "Music Man," and the band concert are several of the year's remaining events. In addition there are the baseball, track, and swimming seasons as well as Senior Day, the prom, and Commencement, all of which make the end of the year a busy one for Lamar students.

This book now belongs to you, the students, and we of the staff hope that you will like and approve of our efforts. For those of us who are graduating, particularly, this year at Lamar will always have a special meaning as we each look forward to what the future holds.
